WEATHER PROGS.
Some local showers and thunderstorms occurred yesterday evening and last night in the territories and Manitoba. Hail fell which amounted to nearly half an inch. A few more showers of local thunder storms are indicated for today—for Manitoba followed by fine weather with moderate temperature. For Alberta and Assiniboia the outlook is fine and pleasant.

TREASURY PAYMENT AT SADDLE LAKE.
Saddle Lake, July 20.—The payments were finished here on Friday, the 17th inst. Three hundred Indians were paid.

So traders from Edmonton and other points catered to the wants of the red men and all claim to have done a rushing business.
A detachment of the N.W.M.P. under the command of Inspector Deane, looked after law and order.
On Saturday the traders and others got up sports for the benefit of the Indians. Nothing but useful prizes were offered. The day closed with a football match between two Indian teams which was well contested and afforded the onlookers plenty of amusement.

An extra number of kodaks were in use, and we look forward to seeing some good results.
Dr. Aylen, of Fort Saskatchewan, is paying his usual quarterly visit, but, fortunately, his services were not specially required.

The treaty payment party left here this morning for Wapiti, Fish Lake and other points north. They expect to finish paying by next Thursday.

Fishing and bathing in the river are very popular these days.
Dr. P. Aylen left last week for Saddle Lake and other reserves to make the quarterly health inspection of the Indians. The annual treaty money is now being paid to the loyal ones.

SMASH UP ON THE C & E.

Saturday night's passenger train from the south did not arrive in Edmonton until noon Sunday. A freight train which left Red Deer in advance of the passenger train, was wrecked a mile and a half south of Lacombe and this delayed the regular train. The C. P. R. will soon waken to the fact that a few dollars spent on the C. & E. roadbed will be a profitable investment. There have been other accidents in exactly the same place. Last year five cars of a freight train were derailed and smashed in pieces. The place is known as Jamieson's hill, just approaching Lacombe from Banff. Here there is a steep grade with a sharp turn at the bottom and unless the engine is slowed down very considerably the train is almost sure to leave the track. Saturday was a case of the freight being hurled into the ditch and the contents wrecked. A force of men were immediately set to work to clear the track. New rails were laid and the passenger train was allowed to pass on its way. People think that the C. P. R. might well expend a few of their surplus thousands on the roadbed of the Calgary and Edmonton railway.

CRICKET MATCH.

A most enjoyable cricket match was played on Saturday between Edmonton and a team got together by Messrs. Wilson and Kennedy, which was eventually won by Edmonton by 11 runs. Following is the score—

EDMONTON RIFLE ASSOCIATION.
The regular weekly practice took place at the range on Saturday afternoon. The following were some of the top scores—
W. Pearce 250 500 600 700
W. Heist 39 33 25-29
H. C. Taylor 37 21 20-28
W. A. Griesbach 29 23 18-30
From the latter stages of the 500 yard range onward the light became very blinding, the brilliant sunlight being occasionally suddenly overtaken by a passing cloud, necessitating constant changes of elevation.
Several of the old members put in their first practice for the season and did very well.
All members are requested to get down as regularly as possible. Those having rifles and ammunition should notify the secretary, as there is always a shortage at the range.

EDMONTON TRADE.

There was a lull at the station three days of the last week, owing to the train not running. The three days it did run thirty cars of freight were received at the station and four were sent out. The expanded table shows the number of cars and the commodities in each case:

AS OUR READERS SEE US.

Victor Ross, special correspondent of the Toronto Globe, who has been making a tour of the West, has the following to say of the Edmonton district: "Strathcona and Edmonton, the twin cities of the north, considered as a single center of business, have now probably a larger population than any point in the Northwest Territories. As such, they have become one of the last to be served by railways. The fact is significant, and is a matter of some importance to the people of the district, as the best settled agricultural districts in the western country. Thus it is the abiding faith which the West-Edmonton man has always had in the Edmonton district shown.

Both towns are today feeling the enervating influence of three projected railways and a consequent commercial activity, and although the chasm of the Saskatchewan and of a keen spirit of rivalry divide the two towns, they are together in their efforts to hasten the time when Edmonton will be something more than the "northern terminus of the railway system, which is said to contain nearly five thousand people, has since the introduction of the railway line last year taken on quite a metropolitan aspect. The fur-trade business of the hundreds of farmers in the dozen settlements around about, places some of the millionaires, within the next few years, and the prosperity is reflected in four-story commercial buildings, filled with every conceivable article, and the strange mixture of people in the streets. Life in Edmonton appears to have few of the peculiarities of a new town. The professional classes are all well represented, most people believe too well represented, and by several riding clubs, golf links, and by several shooting associations. Edmonton has its theatrical entertainments, and the future historian of the north-west will use these much information at his disposal at the earliest days of Edmonton, although he will be able to go back a century from the present. The site has been recognized as a strategic point by the first exploring trader, for its existence began as a strongly-manned fort. From a height of two hundred feet the town looks down upon the glacier-fed Saskatchewan itself nearly a thousand feet from bank to bank, rushing through the valley, on its long journey half way across the continent. The wooded heights of the other banks, a mile away, through the clear, fine air, are brought very near, and the visitor today is impressed with the idea that the founder of Edmonton must have had a sense of the beautiful as well as the commercial instinct, when he built his emporium on this spot. Here the Hudson Bay and the Northwest companies were rivals in the fur trading business with the Blackfeet and here the freighters of both companies met when back were carriers of goods from the St. Lawrence and Hudson Bay over the continent. From Edmonton the pack trail extended across the mountains to Fort McMurray, on the Columbia, and by that river the first Canadian transcontinental freight reached the Pacific. The two competing companies formed the first Canadian trust in 1821, and the business of trading across the mountains, being thereby diminished, Edmonton, at a time when the time of the transfer to Canada was not of much account.

It had a revival when gold was discovered in the Saskatchewan, and when the Canadian Pacific was proposed to be built through one of the northern passes at which time a fortune was spent in Winnipeg in one day for Edmonton. Having had its boom, without which no western town is complete, Edmonton had to wait for the railway, which reached its doors only last October.

What gives evidence of becoming the principal residential district, is already known as "the west end." It lies along the heights of the river and the town is built on a hill. "An old holding" formerly owned by an official of the Hudson's Bay company, immediately west of the town limits, has been subdivided, and is now, I believe, on the Eastern market. Prices for this property range from $150 to $300, the latter price being for lots on the extension of Jasper avenue. Other subdivisions in the sections of the town in which arid houses are going up, are made up of lots worth from $100 to $200, and the cost of a completed house is, considering the material, something in excess of a workingman's home in the east. There have been within the last few weeks members of several eastern houses in Edmonton, and their conversation would lead one to believe that the large building operations of the next few years will be carried out by Toronto and Montreal capital, and will result in the establishment of a new business center in the town. In connection with the new work projected for the next few years, it is interesting to note that the new system in the town, the high-level bridge for the entrance of the Calgary and Edmonton, is being constructed by the Canadian Northern Railway, and that the new river flats to the upper town, where by mutual contribution from the municipality, the Hudson's Bay Company, and the railway corporation, a site of sixty-nine acres, for yards, shops and a station, has been provided.

The land which is being sold is taken by the English, Canadian and United States settlers in almost equal shares. There is extremely little foreign immigration at the present time, and even the three hundred and forty-five homesteaders last month were practically all English-speaking. The rush has been so great that the forty surveyors who have been laying out the townships have been unable to keep ahead of the settlers, who are squatting on unsurveyed land east, north and south. Mr. Harrison, the government agent in charge of the English settlers, the great majority this year were practical farmers, and that the day of the "rambunctious man" has apparently passed. The American settler is too of the best type, and he is, in fact, the man who is generally willing to give more for land which he wants. Mr. Harrison also spoke a good word for the Galicians who are up in the north and northeast thousands. He said that in proving their homesteads, which entails the necessity of evidence of three years' work, fifty-eight out of sixty of the Galician applications were up to the standard, and the improvements in most cases were far beyond the requirements of the law. The Galicians had also proved a serious condition in the labor market by supplying the need for unskilled workmen and they now perform nine-tenths of the heavy construction work about the town. The Edmonton Galicians, who are almost all from the village of Galician on the other side, have made a reputation for themselves in business, and many of the improvements of their land is being loaned to them freely. They are mindful of their obligations, and are regarded as good pay. The average Galician farm represents from 100 to 200 acres under cultivation, and in the settlement are three steam threshers and a grain mill, all secured within the past few years.

The different settlements of French, Germans, Austrians and Russians, all have their business centers and a number of small towns are growing up within thirty miles of Edmonton. At St. Albert, nine miles distant, a new cathedral is being constructed, which, it is promised, will be the finest church building in the Territories, and Morinville, twelve miles north of St. Albert, has a large flour mill and ships flour twenty-two miles over the trail to Edmonton. Fort Saskatchewan, thirteen miles northeast, is a growing town, and is the military center of the district.

Edmonton, the chief town, has an assessment of over $2,000,000, an active population, and unlimited hope in the future.

remarkably short period of 21 days 24,742 one-pound prints having been put up in that time. This is not all, for during the same period, 1,224 pounds were put up and shipped in boxes making a total of 25,974 pounds manufactured in three weeks.

Last week's receipts were 6,315.1 inches of cream, making 7,835 pounds of butter, there being 6,659 one-pound prints.

These little cubes of yellow butter are veritable gold-bricks for the patrons of our creamery, who have reason to congratulate themselves upon the success the institution is attaining. We doubt very much if any creamery in the Territories can show so good a record. If there is one we would be pleased to hear of it.

Jealous of Britain

Berlin, July 15.—The situation in the Far East appears to the German official press to furnish opportunity for exciting Russian mistrust of Great Britain and recommending German friendship to the Russian government. The Cologne Gazette has begun to publish a series of telegrams from St. Petersburg, carefully conceived in this sense. Not only the policy of Japan in Korea, but also the representations addressed to Russia by the United States re Manchuria, are attributed, according to information by the Gazette, to malignant British suggestions. It was only to be anticipated at the present juncture that the old "Harmarckian" method of calumniating Great Britain should be revived, and that every portion of the policy of the other powers, which happens to be attributed to British initiative, but it is too far testimony to political imagination that they have nothing else to fall back on in their present necessity. As the Russian government does not much care what autarkies are retailed about foreign affairs as long as the internal condition of the empire is not discussed, it is probable that the German press generally will go merrily on, but intrigues of this character have lost a great deal of their significance.

FARMERS' ASSOCIATION

Lacombe Advertiser.

The Farmers' Association of Alberta is perhaps making a move in advance of similar organizations in other parts of the Dominion, in reserving under their constitution the privilege of expelling in elections an influence as a body or even making nominations. A candidate might be found on either side of the house, but it must be the farmers' interest and country first every time, party afterwards.

The farmers are, and have always been divided on party lines and it is equally true that their interest as a body is nil.

As the new riding has been formed to guard against any contingency the lecturer at the association's last meeting introduced the subject of representation for this district, which was briefly discussed and left as unfinished business to be taken up at the next monthly meeting.

We might say the aim of the organization is for mutual instruction and protection and to forward the interests of the farmers in every honorable and legitimate way.

Some are of the opinion that the association is hostile to the tradesman. This is a mistake. You might as well say the object of the mercantile association is to antagonize the farmers' interest.

It is encouraging to the charter members to find that their efforts for a strong organization have been appreciated.

It is already a strong organization, new members are being added at every meeting and applications have been received for information and assistance to form branch associations.

BATHONIANS FOR CANADA

The following account of the departure from Bath in the spring of a number of "Englishmen" for Western Canada, is taken from an English exchange.

No, notwithstanding the heavy rain of Tuesday night, the crown platform of the Great Western railway station at 11 p.m. presented a very animated appearance when the Canadian party numbering just over twenty, left "dear old Bath." They had no cause to complain of the want of enthusiasm displayed at their send-off, for quite a crowd of their friends and well-wishers had assembled to wish them God-speed on their long journey. The party was under the conductorship of Mr. S. H. Pearce, himself an old Bathonian (being a native of this city), who was returning to his home at Edmonton, Alberta, in the far West, after a visit to the old country, during which time he has been associated with Mr. W. M. Bell, shipping and emigration agent, of New Bond street, in working up a party for the s.s. Kensington, which left Liverpool on Tuesday at 12 o'clock. The total number of the party going out with Mr. Pearce will not be far off forty, but a large number of them had gone by train earlier in the week to Liverpool. Mr. Bell had secured a saloon for the benefit of those who had preferred to take the night journey, and who, arriving at Liverpool in the morning, joined the other members of the party on board.

All members of the party Mr. Pearce describes as just the right sort of men they want in connection with the great colonization scheme the government is prosecuting in Canada. They were in excellent spirits and very lively hopes were entertained of all doing well. Each member of the party was provided with official introduction card to any of the government agencies they may call at on arrival, so that the advice of which they may stand in need may be obtained.
